Challenges

1. Significant economic, social or environmental obstacles

- Uncertainty in legal aspect and conflicting interests of central and local government in land use planning, i.e., discrepancies between national forest land-use and provincial land use plan lead to uncertainties and potential threats for oil palm plantation. Government policies regarding land use very much depend on political situation, when situation change then the policy will change as well. Although plantations have already been established but these can be affected with the changing of new government regulations.
- Government regulations and policies are not well aligned or contradicted with RSPO P&C and indicators leading to confusion over which one to follow.
- RSPO needs to improve engagement and its influence over related government agencies towards improving legal certainties and sustainable business security.
- Alignment of RSPO-set criteria and indicators with government regulations and policies should be conducted.

2. How would you qualify RSPO standards as compared to other parallel standards?

Cost Effective:

No

Robust:

Yes

Simpler to Comply to:

No

3. How has your organization supported the vision of RSPO to transform markets?

- As member of RSPO we can help deliver RSPO vision to our stakeholders during presentation, in fact sheet etc, but need clear standardized presentation guidelines on how to put i.e. logo as RSPO member.
 - We are committed to participate and take part in all RSPO events. Thus, we would like to be informed and invited in any events or forum organized by RSPO. It is time for RSPO to enhance participation or engagement of growers/producers in any RSPO-organized forum or events.
 - We have developed credentials both in social and environmental aspects of palm oil development, which we would like to share with other members of RSPO or concerned partners. Therefore, we would be very happy to represent RSPO either as members or growers representatives in any forum.
