In May 2023, Kraft Heinz released its Deforestation- and Conversion-Free Policy, which details our commitment to respecting forests and nature, and to eliminating deforestation and natural ecosystem conversion from our supply chain. This new policy, which supersedes our previous Corporate Policy on Sustainable Palm Oil, includes long-term protection and remediation where necessary for priority raw materials including palm oil, sugar, beef, dairy, cocoa, coffee, pulp, paper and packaging and applies to all Kraft Heinz operations worldwide, as well as to our suppliers and business partners. Deforestation and conversion across all sourcing areas for palm will be covered by this Policy.

Kraft Heinz is working towards ensuring 100% of the palm oil it sources is Deforestation- and Conversion Free no later than 2025 and are specified in the respective roadmap. Kraft Heinz recognizes the unique challenge posed by derivatives. Therefore, we intend to work in a phased approach starting with our palm oil; derivatives will be assessed at a later time. Kraft Heinz will endorse certification or verification programmes that meet or exceed the expectations outlined in this Policy. Where properly certified or verified palm volumes are not used in our sourcing, Kraft Heinz will work with our supply chain partners to address the gaps.

Additionally, Kraft Heinz is a founding member of the North American Sustainable Palm Oil Network (NASPON) working group which looks to develop solutions that promote the production and use of RSPO certified sustainable palm oil in this market and will continue its engagement with this organization in order to move forward our sustainable palm oil commitments.

Shared Responsibility
